BURNS BANQUET HELD MONDAY GREAT SUCCESS

Almost 100 Attended and Occasion Fittingly Celebrated--Fine Speeches and Good Musical Program

For the past five years the Burns' Club here has celebrated January 25th in commeration of the birth of Robbie Burns, Scotland's immortal poet. This year was no exception, and it was the opinion of all present that the annual affair held in the Redcliff hotel last Monday evening eclipsed all previous ones in every respect.

The dining room of the hotel was suitably decorated for the occasion and after Chairman Hayes said the old Burns blessing almost one hundred guests sat down to one of the finest banquets ever put on in Redcliff. In fact it was a credit to any city. Besides lacking nothing in the shape of eatables, the service was excellent. The event of this part of the evening's program was the arrival of the haggis which was carried by four stalwart sons of the land of the heather following Piper Logan, to the tune of the "2nd Lowland Divisional Engineers."

After all had partaken freely of almost everything known to the cuisine art, the chairman, W. J. Hayes, called the gathering to order and proceeded with the toast list. He reviewed the history of the Burns club in Redcliff and the many times it had gathered on similar occasions, after which he proposed the toast to the king, which was heartily drank and responded to by all joining in the national anthem.

In proposing the toast to "Land We Live In" Councillor Hodge gave an interesting account of Canada's illimitable stretch of country, its wealth of scenery and its great possibilities. Mr. Wm. Henderson, Sr., responded to this toast. He reviewed the physical features and natural resources of Canada, showing the wealth she possessed in the products of the forest, the farm, the waters and the mine. Great as were these resources, the country's real success depended more on its people. Our climate was such as would produce a hardy people but besides being strong physically we must also be strong socially and morally if we would in the truest sense of the word be an exalted people. He thought Canada compared favorably with other countries in this respect and he was proud to belong to a country whose young men were doing so nobly in offering their services in defence of the principal of honor and justice.

The toast which is always looked forward to as the one of the evening is the one to "Immortal Memory of Burns." On this occasion it was proposed by Mayor Bott. His worship was in excellent form and we venture to say that at no Burns banquet held this year any place was greater justice done this toast. In his opening remarks the speaker said it was a great pleasure to see that notwithstand the dull times of 1914 and the opening months of this year, a spirit of enthusiasm abandon held sway. He then gave an interesting review of the life and works of Burns. Burns, he said, first saw the light of day near the Brig o' Doon, Ayrshire. The humble setting precluded the entertainment of ambitions beyond a simple succession of family achievements, and each succeeding generation reared little progress beyond their forebears. Unacquainted with necessary requisites for writing poetry by rule, Burns began to sing the sentiments he felt and saw in himself and the rustic compeers around him, in his and their own native language. From the earliest impulse of the softer passions, he sought to transcribe the feelings, the love, the fears, the hopes in his own breast that he might find some sort of counterpoise in the alien scenes of the big world about him. His range of vision and intensity of imagination, coupled with an emotional quality peculiar to him, make a very unique figure indeed in the world of letters. Literature does not contain a reference to the many-sided home life which compares with his "Cotter's Saturday Night." His "Epistle to a Young Friend" follows up the evolution of life with the same strength of thought. His address to "The Unco Guid" is remarkable for its real humanness and lack of carping, judicial criticism, while the wrestling with his own heart in his "Prayer in the Prospect of Death," shows an honest candor which assures that there could not be much question as to Burns' humble dependance on Him to whom he addressed the lines: "But Thou Art Good, and Goodness still delighteth to forgive."

Shakespeare, world minded, sets forth the inherent royalty of man. Milton, catching a glimpse of the open portal of the invisible, bursts forth with his song of "Paradise Lost and Paradise Regained." Newton, responding to the supernal power, made worlds his stepping stones to graduate the universe. But Burns combines the keen intellectual energy of Shakespeare, the tidal waves of emotional Milton with the calculating exactness of Newton.

When the state was actuated by autocracy, bordering on despotism, polemical divinity was the religious order of the day. Burns breaks out with his demand for democracy in the state, and declares humble devotion to the Creator to be the essential religion.

In a great peroration His Worship closed his address in the following words: "So long as democracy demands ample room and reward for the honest toiler; so long as the minds of men wrestle honestly with the problem of their own being, and are fair to their fellow men; so long as the pith o' sense, and pride o' worth are considered to be higher than the ribband and star of the 'girkie who struts like a lord,' so long as in imagination men lift themselves above mind and matter to revel among the completudes of the universe—just so long will there be a lively sense of the nearness of the spirit of Robbie Burns and men will join him as he sings: Then let us pray that come it may,

And come it will for a' that,
When man to man the world o'er
Shall brithers be for a' that.

For the fourth time since coming to town Councillor Ireland was called upon to propose the toast to "Auld Scotia." He esteemed it a great honor to have his name connected with this toast and proceeded to review the good work done for the empire by the sons of Auld Scotia, none the less important among these deeds was the excellent work they were doing on the firing line at the present moment.

C. F. Jamieson, of Medicine Hat, responded. In opening his remarks he said he would be a cold man indeed who would not have his heart warmed by what he had seen and heard on this occasion. He was glad to see that the financial depression through which the country was passing was not having a depressing effect upon the members of the Burns club, but on the contrary they were able to hold this annual event and were entering heartily into the spirit of the occasion. Because he was a son of Nova Scotia—or New Brunswick for that the Scotch had been tried too well and faced death too often to become downhearted because of depression. In a most interesting manner he spoke of the energy, thrift and enthusiasm of the early Scotch settlers in Nova Scotia and of the great work they had done in the pioneer days, for the development and advancement of Canada as a whole.

Chief Reynolds proposed the toast to "The Army and Navy." In speaking of the navy the chief said that at the present as in the past the British navy was the power of the empire and although at the present time her very existance was being threatened he felt sure that the fearless daring and indomitable bull dog pluck of the boys in blue would bring the old flag out of the fray with credit and honor.

In replying this toast J. Rutherford said he had no fears as to the final result of the present European struggle. While it might take days or weeks or years to settle, there was one general who, when he got in control, would put an end to the war in a few days. That was "General Hunger." As Canadians he thought all should join the big army under "General Progress" so that we could march forward.

Baptist Church Splendid Years Work

The annual meeting of the Redcliff Baptist church was held in Redcliff hall, Third street, last Tuesday evening. Although the weather was very frosty there was a good attendance of the members present. The financial statements were read from he different departments of the church work and showed that all branches were in a very healthy and progressive condition indeed. Although this time of financial depression had been felt considerably still each report revealed a small balance on the right side of the ledger with which to close the year and this fact was very gratifying. The Sunday school is rapidly growing both in interest and numbers. The Ladies Aid report was very encouraging and special mention was made of the timely help the ladies organization has given recently in assisting to bear the financial burden.

The contribution to missions for the year were exceptionally good—more having been raised by Redcliff church last year than many of the larger churches of the province. The duplex envelope system is being used and in these times when money is scarce it is "the poor man's friend," for hereby a little given regularly every week amounts to far more by the end of the year than one or two special contributions and is not felt seriously when given in this way. All members were requested to use the envelopes during the coming year.

It was reported that there were at the present time a considerable number of Baptists living in Redcliff who had not united directly with the local church. All such were requested to see the pastor regarding this matter at an early date.

Rev. R. G. Blundell, pastor of Medicine Hat Baptist church, addressed the meeting following he business session, giving an inspiring message for the coming year's work. He considered the Redcliff church had made wonderful strides since its organization 18 months ago, and prospects for the work in 1915 were exceptionally bright. Following the address the Ladies Aid served lunch and a very pleasant and profitable evening was brought to a close.

RED CROSS SOCIETY WANTS MORE HELP

It is hard, in fact almost impossible, for those who have not actually visited the hospitals at the base in France at the present time, to realize the suffering that our soldiers and our allies are experiencing in their battle for the freedom of Europe. Although the casualties from wounds are heavy they are not to be compared to those caused by exposure to the elements and other diseases brought on by continual exposure. The cold, wet weather has for the past month or more wrought a dreadful havoc amongst our soldiers and the hospitals at Boulogne and St. Omer, where the British headquarters are located, are filled to overflowing. The nurses and officials of the Red Cross Society are called upon to work night and day on behalf of these men who bear their misery with true British courage.

Our soldiers will soon be taking their places in the trenches which are comfortable under any circumstances and for the last two or three weeks have been filled with water and mud. It is absolutely essential that the men should be warmly clothed and have a large number of changes. The society will be glad to receive any kind of comfort and also cash contributions. All gifts should be addressed to the Canadian Red Cross Society, 77 King street east, Toronto, Canada.

RESPECTING OIL FIELDS

Cunningham Craig, the oil expert, whose name became well known during the Calgary boom last year, assures the British public that there is undoubtedly an important oil field in Alberta. He does not know just where it is, and yet he is convinced that it exists. This was the substance of his address before the Institute of Petroleum Technologists in London, last week. Dr. Bosworth, who spent some time last Summer prospecting in Alberta, backed up this statement.

COMMITTEE SUBMITS NEW WATER RATES

Water Committee Suggests New Schedule of Rates for 1915---Must Have Permit To Sell Water.

The regular meeting of the town council was held in the council chamber last Monday evening. Mayor Bott occupied the chair and the following councillors were present: Messrs. McLachlan, Hodge, Devitt, Black, Robertson and Ireland.

The relief committee reported and recommended that the bill presented for medical attendance in the Huntley be not paid. The bill was referred back to the committee for further investigation.

The finance committee recommended the payment of a few other small accounts.

A letter was read from the town clerk of Medicine Hat asking the feeling of this council regarding the matter of arranging for dray and auto license for those doing business between the two places. The letter suggested that some mutual agreement be arrived at whereby one license would cover both towns. The secretary was instructed to reply to the letter stating that this council would enter into negotiations for a reciprocal arrangement covering the same.

A letter was read from A. Harris asking the council to allow him to take out a six months' auctioneers' license instead of for the full year. This was referred to the license committee.

The water committee submitted a list of unpaid water rates and recommended that be written off the books as the parties owing same had left town and could not be located. The council approved the recommendation.

The water committee also submitted the following schedule of water rates and recommended that they be adopted for this year:

The water committee also recommended that a fine be imposed on any who sold water without first securing a permit from the council, nd that a seal be attached to all meters and bypasses.

The schedule was received and adopted by the council.

On motion of Councillors Robertson and Black the secretary was instructed to prepare a list of all those who are at present in arrears for water and hand same to the chairman of the water committee.

A by-law providing for licensing plumbers and gas fitters was introduced. Themayor explained that his attention had been called several times lately to narrow escapes from accident because of fulty work on the gas pipes done by incompetent men. The by-law, he thought, would protect both the public and the plumbers. The by-law was referred to the town solicitor.

Councillor Black asked for an interpretation of the transient traders by-law and whether or not it applied to the rock at present being sold in the T. A. Hicks stand. After some discussion the matter was referred to town solicitor to deal with.

The market and cemetary committee submitted their report in which they recommended that provision be made for opening up a market as soon as possible in the spring, and that a by-law providing for the necessary money be prepared and submitted to the burgesses. They also suggested that a portion of the town property along the west spur track be set aside for a mill and elevator site. It was further suggested that the council advertise for a suitable site for a cemetery, said site to be fifteen acres more or less.

The report was received and laid over till the next meeting.

Several complaints were registered regarding the present unsatisfactory system of garbage collecting and it was decided to have this done four days a week in future.

Moved by Councillor Robertson, seconded by Councillor McLachlan, that the council meet as a committee of the whole next Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Carried.

Says Bill Will Involve the States

Grave fear that the pending government ship purchase bill, if carried into effect, would involve the United States in serious international controversies was expressed in the senate by Senator Root, of New York. Addressing himself largely to the legal aspects of the measure and what the administration plans to do under it, the senator also charged the Democrats with attempting to rush the bill through by "brute force and weight of votes," and solemnly warned his colleagues against the danger of reducing the senate to a mere "registering, instead of a legislative, body."

Senator Root's speech aroused the majority members, who for several days had remained silent, while Republican speakers attacked the bill and drew sharp replies from Senators Williams, Stone and Simmons.

GERMANY IS AFTER ENGLAND'S SCALP.

Under the heading, "We have only one enemy," the Hamburger Nachrichten, according to Reuter's correspondent at Amsterdam, says:

"A striking proof of this phrase is found in the new prizes, which the official Reichs Anzieger announces have been set aside for special military achievements. Three of the four prizes are aimed against England and consist of sums of money varying in value from $125 to $625.

"These amounts will be awarded to the first soldier who steps on the soil of Great Britain as a combatant, the crew of the airship which before December 31, 1915, accomplishes the first flight to the English coast and drops a bomb on English territory, and the aviator who drops the first bomb on Dover."

TWO GERMAN CRUISERS SUNK BY THE BRITISH

Naval Battle In North Sea Last Sunday---German Are Put to Flight---Blucher Is Sunk With 800 of Crew

The Geman armored cruiser Blucher, of 15,550 tons displacement, was sunk in an engagement with British waships last Sunday in the North Sea. Two other vessels of the German fleet were seriously damaged. The official press bureau statement adds that no British ships were hurt.

"Early morning a British patrolling squadron of battle cruisers and light cruisers, under Vice-Admiral Sir David Beatty, with a destroyer flotilla under Commodore Tyrwhitt, sighted four German battle cruisers and several light cruisers, and a number of de troyers, steaming westward apparently making for the English coast.

"The enemy at once made for home at top speed. They were at once pursued and at about 9:30 a. m. action was joined between the battle cruisers Tiger, Lion, Princess Royal, New Zealand and Indomitable, on the one hand, and the Derflinger, Seydlitz, Moltke and Blucher on the other. A well-contested running fight ensued. Shortly after 1 o'clock the Blucher, which had previously fallen out of line, capsized and sank.

Admiral Beatty reports that two other battle cruisers were seriously damaged. They were, however, able to continue their flight, and reached an area where dangers from German submarines and mines prevented further pursuit.

No British ships were lost, and the casulties in personnel, were slight, the Lion, which led the line, having only eleven wounded and no killed.

One hundred and twenty-three survivors were rescued from the Blucher's crew of 885, and it is possible that others have been saved by destroyers.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—It was officially announced that the British battle cruiser Lion and the British torpedo destroyer Meteor were disabled in Sunday's naval battle in the North Sea and were towed into port. The British casualties included 18 killed, 26 wounded.

Alberta Farmers Pass Good Resolution

The following resolution was passed by the A. F. A. convention recently held in Edmonton:

"We, the representatives of the United Farmers of Alberta, assembled in our annual convention, in view of the awful destruction of life and property and the infinite misery resulting from the presentwar, desire to express our deep conviction that when the terms of peace are drafted at the end of the war the chief end must be to make future wars impossible, so that the end of this war shall be the end of all wars between civilized nations, and to effect this the peace should be arranged, not lines of conquest and national humiliation, leaving a rankling soreness and bitterness and planting the seeds of future wars, but on lines aiming at satisfying all legitimate national aspirations, destroying militarism in all countries, bringing about general disarmament and abolishing all manufacturing of arms and munitions of war in private factories, so that no man can derive profit from the slaughter of his fellowmen."

The council of the town of Commerce, a few miles south of Lethbridge, is in a sorry plight. Inspector Hodgkins of the provincial license department, Sergeant Colderidge and Corporal Moorhead of the mounted police, swooped down upon the ruling authorities for running the town on the wide-open plan. Blind pigs and disorderly houses are said to have flourished under the express patronage of the local celebrities. As a result, practically the whole council was arrested besides the alleged town constable.

CONSCRIPTION NOT NECESSARY

There has been a lot of talk about the possibility of conscription in Britain. When it was first suggested there were many opposed to it in any form, including supporters of the government in the free church and among the Welsh Liberals. Remarkable developments are proceeding in London over the question, however, and to-day those who were most strongly opposed to it are foremost in advocating compulsory service. They now claim that every citizen is bound to bear his proportionate cost of the monitary expenses of the state, so every citizen should take his part in the defence of the state. Conscription is not necessary now, however. When British subjects the world over began to fully realize the seriousness of the situation every Dominion and every colony rushed to the colors and gave liberally of its men and its money until to-day the military authorities are in the enviable position of being able to announce that there is no present necessity for conscription. They have fully as many men in sight as they can handle and equip. Speaking at a recruiting meeting at Northampton, Sir Ryland Dent Adkins, M. P. for Middleton, said he had Lord Kitchener's authority for stating that His Lordship was abundantly satisfied with the progress of recruiting since the war began. The war minister had told him that the progress was nothing short of remarkable.

THE GERMAN GAME

Canadians, and particularly the Canadian press, should be careful not to play the German game by indulging in pointed criticism of the United States government. The protests of our American cousins over the right of search, the Dacia incident and the like, may be unpleasant, but to give expression to the feelings in censorious language is bound to be resented south of the boundary line.

To provoke ill-feeling between American and British interests is the studied policy of the German government, working through its emissaries in the United States. The more Canadian criticism can be drawn the more likely are they to succeed. Such being the case it would be well to preserve a calm attitude, and even to pass over in silence developments which, under normal conditions, would be the subject of candid criticism. If to speak is to play the German game, then speak not.

MERE SCRAP OF PAPER

Two articles of the Hague convention of 1907, signed by all the Powers, including Germany and Belgium, which have received surprisingly little public attention, are dealt with by William E. Church, of Chicago, in a noteworthy letter in the New York Evening Post. They are the two final articles of the following-four, which are all set forth by Mr. Church on account of the plain unity of meaning which links them together:

"Article 1. The territory of neutral powers is inviolable.

"Article 2. Belligerents are forbidden to move troops or convoys of either munitions of war or supplies across the territory of a neutral power.

"Article 5. A neutral power must not allow any of the acts referred to in Article 2 to occur on its territory.

"Article 10. The fact of a neutral power resisting even by force attempts to violate its neutrality cannot be regarded as a hostile act."

In the face of these articles of the Hague convention of 1907 it is plainly impossible for any honest mind to come to any other conclusion than that Germany was guilty not only of hypocrisy in giving its assent to these agreements of the most solemn character, but of a deliberate purpose to mislead and deceive the other powers, Belgium included, since the entire attitude of Emperor William's government compels the belief that it must then have had the intent, which has been frankly avowed, to repudiate utterly all treaty obligations as "mere scraps of paper" the moment when it suited its designs and purpose to repudiate them.

For the past week the two Medicine Hat papers have been showing subscribers that times are mighty dull in editorial as well as other lines. They have been devoting considerable editorial space to the soldiers' boot question and so far as we can see both are trying to see which can make the biggest mountain out of the smallest mole hill. The best article of the whole controversy appeared in yesterday morning's Times when it said it was not going to discuss the matter any further.

At the Alberta United Farmers' convention held at Edmonton last week a delegate seriously proposed that the association should publish an organ. The proposal was getting along very well until Editor Chipman, of the Grain Growers' Guide, intimated that $100,000 would be required to launch successfully such an undertaking. Then the temperature of the hall suddenly became as chilly as the air outside, and the proposal was frozen stiff.

We have heard of bootblack orators and bootblack evangelists but the Medicine Hat News has dug up a military bootblack for its confidential adviser regarding the Canadian militia and its equipment. Another case of "making chaff while the bootblack shines."

COTTON IN YARMOUTH

Canada's Largest Duck Mill Situated in Far East—A Record of Expansion

"The Canadian Textile Journal" of Montreal has an interesting account of the history and development of the big cotton company which has been situated in the Town of Yarmouth since 1883. Starting out in a small way in that year extensions were made in 1892, 1907 and again last year. In 1883 the total output was 5,000 pounds per week of finished product. This has grown to-day to 75,000 pounds per week.

The human element of this enormous plant is worth considerable study. Hundreds of well paid and seemingly contented employes are on the "roll." Of course, if any one will take the trouble to talk to them individually, he will find some kickers—some people will "kick" even in Heaven, if they happen to get there—but on the whole they are perfectly satisfied with the mill and their employers. Quite a number of the employes have been there ever since the mill opened thirty years ago, and very many of the younger men and women, too, have spent practically all their working hours in that mill. The mill was floated on a bond issue, and quite a number of those working there are bondholders. In a large measure the mill is their mill, and its prosperity is their prosperity. Probably this is one of the reasons why the management has never been vexed by labor problems, which are the bug-bear of many a mill situated less favorably.

Inter-dependence of manufacturing industries is demonstrated by a glance at the list of purchasers of this company's product. It will be found that two of their largest individual accounts are the big implement companies of Toronto and Hamilton, who use large quantities of duck in their binders. Naturally those interested in the Yarmouth mill do not regard the agitation for free agricultural implements with any degree of favor as they know it will inevitably mean cancellation in the shape of reductions in duties of materials purchased by the implement firms. As the duck mill is perhaps the backbone of Yarmouth's commercial life, it will be seen that considerable opposition will arise in this prosperous town to any proposal to reduce the duty on implements, which involves interference with the production of the cotton mill. At the present time the big implement companies pay a protection of 17½ per cent. on their binders, in which the duck is used, whereas the duty on duck is the same.

Those who are dependent directly or indirectly on the prosperity of a big industry like that in Yarmouth for their livelihood realize fully the value of industrial development to the community. No one in Yarmouth or the vicinity would favor reductions in the duties on duck which would cause a falling off in the production of the Yarmouth mill, and provide a mill in United States or England with more work. It is hard to see, however, how the Government can refuse to reduce the duty on duck if they materially reduce the duty on agricultural implements.

WESTERN PORK PACKING

Several New Plants Projected For the Extension of the Industry

In addition to the pork packing plants which have been established of recent years in Calgary, Edmonton, and within the last year in Moose Jaw and Saskatoon, Kerrobert will soon boast a good packing industry.

The Dominion Abattoir Company, of London, Ontario, has just commenced the erection of a pork packing plant there. The firm expects to use about three hundred hogs per week as soon as the plant begins operations. Farmers should give their support as it will mean much to them in future profits.

It is gratifying to see that Eastern manufacturing firms are realizing the possibilities of development in Western Canada, and are not slow to embark their capital in branch plants in the West. Already twenty-five or more of the oldest and largest firms in their respective lines in Canada have opened up branch factories in the West, covering such lines as paints, oils, cement, flour, glass, metallic roofing, starch, cars, castings, pipe, metal beds and bedding, pork packing, etc. Thus in a few years the West has already seen tangible results from the stable trade policy Canada has followed for the last quarter of a century. As time passes the West will more and more come to do its own manufacturing, particularly if the policy of requiring United States firms to manufacture their product in Canada in order to enjoy a share of our market is adhered to.

TURKS ARE NOW INVADING EGYPT.

An engagement occurred yesterday to the eastward of El Oantara in Egypt, presumably with the advance guard of a Turkish army, although details are lacking. The Egyptain losses were one officer and four men slightly wounded. Only a comparatively small number of men were engaged in the fighting, which was in the nature of skirmishes.

Detachments of Turkish troops have been sighted at three other points to the east of the Suez canal, but no fighting has resulted, except in the vicinity of El Oantara. In this engagement the Turks opened fire with long range mountain guns. The British replied with machine guns and rifles. A British seaplane dropped bombs upon the Turkish forces near Birmurhadad, inflicting losses.

Already, of the crop of 1914, 20,666,360 bushels have been inspected and nearly all shipped out of the country, the amount in store at Fort William being very small in proportion to former years.
